

Solon wants 'last mile' schools in Build, Build, Build

MANILA -- Senator Sherwin Gatchalian on Thursday called for the inclusion of the Department of Education's (DepEd) Last Mile Schools program in the administration's Build, Build, Build infrastructure program.

Gatchalian, who is the presumptive chair of the Senate Committee on Basic Education and Culture, said some PHP92 billion is needed to fund the construction and improvement of about 8,000 Last Mile schools over the next three years.

He noted that it was just a "paltry amount" compared to the original PHP8.4 trillion cost of the Build, Build, Build program.

The Last Mile Schools program aims to provide students living in Geographically Isolated, Disadvantaged and Conflict-Affected (GIDCA) areas with unhampered and equal access to quality basic education.

"Access to quality basic education is the right of every Filipino and I am glad that the DepEd, under the leadership of Secretary Briones, is giving priority to the schools that have otherwise been neglected or fallen behind their urban counterparts," Gatchalian said.

"But in order for the program to succeed, mukhang kailangan nating mag-infuse dito ng malawakang suporta, and one way to do this is to have the Last Mile Schools program become part of the Build, Build, Build program," he added.

Last Mile Schools are schools that have multi-grade classes, with less than 7ve teachers, and a student population of fewer than 100 learners, more than 75 percent of which are usually indigenous people.

They lack complete sets of school furniture, no computers, no internet connection, very few textbooks, and manuals, and lacking laboratory tools and equipment.

"Given that the DepEd has already pledged to prioritize the Last Miles Schools program and also given that DepEd is already working with the DPWH (Department of Public Works and Highways) to open access roads for the convenience of the students, I see no reason why the program should not be part and parcel of Build, Build, Build," Gatchalian said. Esperon presses perjury raps vs. Red front groups

MANILA -- National Security Adviser Hermogenes Esperon on Thursday personally appeared before the Quezon City Prosecutor's Office at the hearing of the perjury charges he filed against groups which initiated the writ of amparo petitions against him, President Rodrigo Duterte and other officials of the Armed Forces of the Philippines (AFP) which were subsequently dismissed by the Court of Appeals (CA).

City Senior Prosecutor Nilo Peñaflor gave the respondents until August 15 to answer the perjury complaint filed by Esperon against Karapatan, the Rural Missionaries of the Philippines (RMP) and Gabriela.

"(Dinemanda) nila ang President, ako and seven others eh di nakita na ang mga papel nila ay peke. That's clear perjury, (They sued the President, me and seven others and so it was discovered that their documentation is fake and that's clear perjury," Esperon told newsmen in a chance interview after the hearing.

In the case of RMP which runs the 55 Salugpungan Ta'tanu Igkanugon Community Learning Center Inc. (Salugpungan) whose operations were earlier ordered suspended by the Department of Education, Esperon said their registration was "revoked in 2003".

"(K)ung di sila duly registered, bakit sila tumatang-gap ng donations (If they are not duly registered, why are they accepting donations?" he said.

Esperon, citing reports of the military and police on the ground and the testimonies of the Mindanao Indigenous People's Counsel elders and leaders, said there was an unmistakable pattern of training anti-government armed rebels by these schools.

As an example, Esperon said these schools have a different "national" anthem which they teach to students.

Students are also taught assembly and disassembly of firearms and learn the alphabets with different anti-government slogans starting with "A for armas (weapon)".

More importantly, Esperon said the schools do not issue credentials to students which would allow their wards to take further studies.
